A Precious Name
Loise Pinkerton Fritz

I heard them call her “Mama,”
An ordinary name.
It holds no tinge of glamor,
Nor does it speak of fame.
It’s just a simple home word
But, oh, it reaches far,
Extending to the very depths
Of children’s trusting hearts.

Two syllables of loving
Is what it means to me;
Two syllables of praying
On tired, bended knees.
Two syllables of wisdom
Stored deep within her heart;
Two syllables of singing still
When all the world seems dark.

I heard them call her “Mama,”
Oh, what a sweet refrain!
It is the soothing ointment
That heals each childhood pain.
What if it holds no glamor
Nor overtures of fame?
For everyone called “Mama,”
Yes, it’s such a precious name.

O God, You make the minds of the faithful to be of one will;
grant to Your people to love that which You command, and to desire that which You promise; that amidst the changes of this world, our hearts may be fixed where there are true joys. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Thief of Human Respect

It is the spirit of the world, not only for men to “seek their own,” – convenience, ease, pleasure – but to seek as the end for which they live, the good opinion of others. From the child at school to the middle-aged woman or aged man, there is one thought ever in their minds: What will their little world think of them? As one looks back over life, the life that to the world looks so fair, what will he see, if enlightened and truthful? A constant succession of efforts to obtain the esteem of that world by whom he will be forgotten within a very short time.

You who are trying to put away the spirit of the world, have determined to act to please God alone. In great matters you will probably choose God’s side, no matter how you may have to trample underfoot human respect. But in the small affairs of life, do you act only to please God? Does it ever happen to you to think to yourself, “What will so-and-so think of me if I do that?” etc.

We can all apply it to ourselves: and must confess that, in matters where it would be a great sin, sooner than yield to human respect we would, with God’s grace, give up our lives, and think it an honor. Nevertheless, in little or seemingly little matters, we do not always choose to do what may be most pleasing to God. We do not consult His wish. This even follows us to the confessional.

We carry human respect even there, where we place ourselves at the foot of the Cross, not alone to cleanse our souls from their stains, and to have them made white and beautiful by the Precious Blood Jesus shed upon the Cross for them, but likewise to receive counsel how to fashion our lives in conformity with our crucified Lord. Ah! what a pity.

Resolve, then, that the fruit of this meditation shall be to put away from you, as you would a bad thought, any idea that may present itself to you, as to what you will be thought of if you take a certain course of action. In judging what is best to do of two lines of conduct, be sure you cannot make a true judgment while you are the slave of human respect.

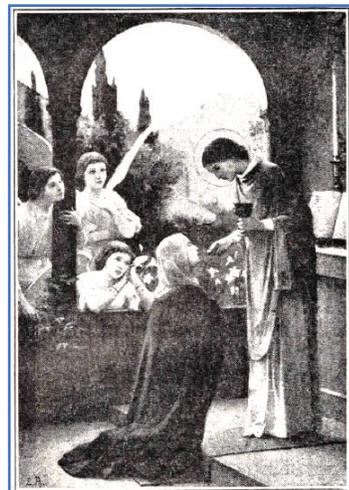

To Jesus through Mary, Mother Mary Potter

A Mother’s Day Gift for Mary

No greater or better Gift than her Divine Son Himself! either in His Sacramental Presence or in your Spiritual Communion.

After Holy Communion, inwardly recollected and holding your eyes shut, you will introduce Jesus into the heart of Mary. You will give Him to His Mother, who will receive Him lovingly, will place Him honorably, will adore Him profoundly, will love Him perfectly, will embrace Him closely, and will render to Him, in spirit and in truth, many homages which are unknown to us in our thick darkness.

True Devotion to Mary

O Jesus, Eternal Priest, keep Thy priests within the shelter of Thy Sacred Heart, where none may touch them.

Keep unstained their anointed hands, which daily touch Thy Sacred Body.

Keep unsullied their lips, daily purpled with Thy Precious Blood.

Keep pure and unworldly their hearts,
sealed with the sublime mark of the priesthood.

Let Thy holy love surround them from the world’s contagion.

Bless their labors with abundant fruit, and may the souls to whom they minister be their joy and consolation here and their everlasting crown hereafter.

Mary, Queen of the Clergy, pray for us:
obtain for us many and holy priests. Amen.
