QUAS PRIMAS

excerpts from Encyclical of Pope Pius XI on the Kingship of Christ

*King of kings is He anointed,
let all men adore Him!
Lord above all lords appointed;
let us bow before Him.
Christ Who leads us,
Christ Who loves us,
Christ our Ruler from His birth.
He shall triumph,
He shall triumph,
over all the earth!
King of kings is He appointed
over all the earth.
Son of God and yet our Brother,
let all men adore Him!
Son of Mary, our sweet Mother,
let us bow before Him.
Christ Who made us,
Christ Who saves us,
Christ Who can all foes defy,
He shall triumph,
He shall triumph,
from His throne on high!
Son of God and yet our Brother,
from His throne on high.*

... We referred to the chief causes of the difficulties under which mankind was laboring, saying that these manifold evils in the world were due to the fact that the majority of men had thrust Jesus Christ and His holy law out of their lives; that these had no place either in private affairs or in politics: and We said further, that as long as individuals and states refused to submit to the rule of our Savior, there would be no really hopeful prospect of a lasting peace among nations. Men must look for the Peace of Christ in the Kingdom of Christ.

Christ is our King by acquired, as well as by natural right, for He is our Redeemer. "You were not redeemed with corruptible things, but with the Precious Blood of Christ, as of a lamb unspotted and undefiled." We are no longer our own property, for Christ has purchased us "with a great price"; "our very bodies are the members of Christ."

When once men recognize, both in private and in public life, that Christ is King, society will at last receive the great blessings of real liberty, well-ordered discipline, peace and harmony. Peace and harmony, too, will result; for with the spread and the universal extent of the Kingdom of Christ, men will become more and more conscious of the link that binds them together, and thus many conflicts will be either prevented entirely or at least their bitterness will be diminished.

If the Kingdom of Christ receives, as it should, all nations under its sway, there seems no reason why we should despair of seeing that peace which the King of Peace came to bring on earth - He who came to reconcile all things, Who came not to be ministered unto but to minister, Who, though Lord of all, gave Himself to us as a model of humility, and with His principal law united the precept of charity; Who said also: "My yoke is sweet and My burden light." Oh, what happiness would be Ours if all men, individuals, families, and nations, would but let themselves be governed by Christ! "Then at length," (quoting Pope Leo XIII), "then at length will many evils be cured; then will the law regain its former authority; peace with all its blessings be restored. Men will sheathe their swords and lay down their arms when all freely acknowledge and obey the Authority of Christ, and every tongue confesses that the Lord Jesus Christ is in the glory of God the Father."

While nations insult the beloved Name of our Redeemer by suppressing all mention of It in their conferences and parliaments, we must all the more loudly proclaim His kingly dignity and power, all the more universally affirm His rights.

He must reign in our minds, which should assent with perfect submission and firm belief to revealed truths and to the doctrines of Christ. He must reign in our wills, which should obey the laws and precepts of God. He must reign in our hearts, which should spurn natural desires and love God above all things, and cleave to Him alone. He must reign in our bodies and in our members, which should serve as instruments for the interior sanctification of our souls, or to use the words of the Apostle Paul, as instruments of justice unto God.

Given at St. Peter's in Rome, on the eleventh day of the month of December, in the Holy Year 1925, the fourth of Our Pontificate.

-- Pius XI, Pope
